Here is disclosed a package of disposable diapers in which diapers are arranged in close contact one with another in a 5 back-and-forth direction of the diapers each having waist-lateral portions folded inward between themselves together with lateral portions of a core in front and rear waist regions of the diaper toward a longitudinal center line bisecting a width dimension defined between the waist-lateral 10 portions. Of these diapers, intermediate portions between the waist-lateral portions are in close contact one with another so that the diapers can be compactly packed within a bag without any significant void space left between each pair of the diapers adjacent to each other.
